

Dr. Ron Burnett, President, Emily Carr Institute of Art and Design is a film and videomaker, photographer, web designer and writer. He has published three books, most recently, How Images Think (MIT Press, 2005) and over 150 articles in journals and books worldwide. His website was mounted in 1994 and was one of the earliest sites of its kind in Canada. He is Chair of the Board of Knowledge Network, BC's public educational channel, a recipient of the Queen's Jubilee Medal for service to Canada and Canadians, former Designer in Residence at the New Media Innovation Center (working with Sony Corporation), Williams Evans Scholar at the University of Otago, New Zealand, Vice-Chair of the Board of Great Northern Way Campus in Vancouver, Adjunct Professor of Film and Video at York University in Toronto, and the former publisher and editor of Ciné-Tracts Magazine. Burnett is also the former Director of the Graduate Program in Communications at McGill University and a former Senior Lecturer at LaTrobe University in Melbourne, Australia. He is an in-demand speaker and member of many advisory boards including the European League of Institutes of Art.